Supt. Reports "In-Service" Training Meetings For County

Evaluation of Appomattox County High School, reports of in-service studies and training by faculty members and approval of school trips were among the many items on the agenda of the Appomattox County School Board Friday in the board room, Main Street, Appomattox.

Presiding was Dr. R. H. Gray, Scholl Board chairman with Dr. A. A. Fratrick and Lyle Garrett, the other two members of the board in attendance. Supt. Earl J. Smith told the School Board that the faculty at the Intermediate School has completed a series of meetings, a part of their in-service training.

Supt. Smith said that the instructors are endeavoring to "provide for individual differences in the classroom". According to "Standards of Quality for Public Schools in Va." approved by the State Board of Education in August 1971, the teacher should "provide different subject matter and learning experiences and have different achievement standards for individuals with different abilities and/or past achievements."

In addition, the State Board of Education standards call for a teacher to "provide opportunities for pupils to work independently on meaningful tasks that derive from and contribute to the planned activities of the group."

These standards are taken into account, said the Supt. in the "open space" classrooms established in the Appomattox Primary School and Pamplin Elementary and to some extent in the Intermediate and High School.

In the past, said the Supt. teaching has often been geared to the "average" student, leaving behind the low-achievement pupil and neglecting the high - achievement pupil. Now, he said, there is concerted effort to meet individual needs in the classroom thereby "raising standards of instruction."

Approval was given by the board for the expulsion of one student with instructions to Mr. Daniel Davis, home-school coordinator, to counsel with the student on vocational training or some other type of schooling.

Eleven suspensions were approved, ranging from two to three days to one week's duration.

Supt. Smith reported that all first, third and fifth grades pupils had completed hearing tests in cooperation with the Central Va. Speech and Hearing Center.

A school trip was approved by the board, a trip planned by the Appomattox Chapter Future Farmers of America, to attend the Materials Handling Exposition on January 19, 1972.

The School Board also approved "The Philosophy of Appomattox County High School", a statement of philosophy and objectives of the county high school prepared by Celia Beamer, Richard Carter, Harriett Beasley, Madeline Thomas, Hesteine Foster, Frank Coffey, Gordon Bragg, Jane Garrett, Mrs. Stevens and Doris Hix.
